"BIG"
NATURE IS ANNOYED

Almost in time for his 57th birthday anniversary, five great nations—Germany, France, Italy, Japan and Great Britain yesterday signed a document endorsing the President's "debt holiday" proposal. The announcement made the world more cheerful. Foreign bonds went up; good news for Americans that bought them. Wall Street, rapidly wiping a tear from each eye, straightened out its wrinkles and sent "big steel" to 90, other prices to match.

There is nothing like action, and the President "got action" when he announced his moratorium idea. Debts are not forgiven or wiped out. The plan is to give Germany an opportunity to get her breath.

Nature, without knowing it, but most appropriately, arranges a cosmic fireworks display in honor of the good financial news tonight. Look for magnificent display of meteors, if clouds don't interfere. The display comes once a year and should be especially brilliant this year. Look at the sky in the direction of the Perseids and see how many you can count of the million bright meteors visible from different parts of the country.

The Perseids are all that is left of Tuttle's comet, smashed long ago, floating in space around the sun held by its gravitation, and bombarding planets that come close enough. These meteors rarely do harm.

In Spain Charles Chaplin, whom you have seen walking with his toes out, saw eight bulls killed in one fight, but didn't say what he thought about it. Those that know him know what he thought.

Lalanda, Spain's champion bull fighter, conferred great honor on Mr. Chaplin by presenting to him an ear cut from one of the dead bulls.

If bulls ruled the world you might imagine them forcing Charlie Chaplin and Lalanda into "a man ring" to fight at a terrific disadvantage. You couldn't imagine the worst bull cutting off Charlie Chaplin's ear and handing it to some of the moving picture bulls among the spectators.

The Rockefeller do things in a big way, investing money, or when distributing it, for science and education.

Detailed plans of the new "Rockefeller City" in the heart of New York, filed yesterday, include parks on the roofs of three full city blocks, a total investment of about $250,000,000, one building among others containing the largest building in the world.

The right name for Mr. Rockefeller's magnificent improvement wiping out old-fashioned, ugly buildings, improving the heart of the world's biggest city, is "Rockefeller City" not "Radio City" which has no meaning. "Palinain Qui Meruit Perat."

Nature is annoyed about something. A monsoon in India drowns many.

There was a great earthquake, tidal wave and typhoon in Japan, which created havoc, while floods in Mexico caused great damage.

"LEGS" DIAMOND IS GIVEN FOUR YEARS IN JAIL

Fined $11,000 for Violation of Prohibition Law

WILL SERVE TIME AT ATLANTA PEN

Paul Quattrocchi Given Two Years and Fine Of $5,000

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Jack (Legs) Diamond was sentenced in federal court today to four years imprisonment and fined $11,000 for violation of the prohibition law.

Despite the fact Diamond was one of New York's most publicized gang figures his conviction last week together with Paul Quattrocchi, marked the first time he actually faced a prison sentence.

He was convicted on charges of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law and ownership of a 1,500 gallon applejack still in Greene county, New York.

Will Serve At Atlanta

Sentence was imposed by Federal Judge Richard J. Hopkins of Kansas. He ordered that Diamond serve his sentence at the federal penitentiary at Atlanta.

Counsel for Paul Quattrocchi moved that the conviction of Quattrocchi be set aside on the ground that an effort had been made by Alexander Green, an investigator for Diamond's counsel, to influence certain persons against Quattrocchi and in favor of Diamond.

Judge Hopkins denied the motion and sentenced Quattrocchi to two years in Atlanta and to pay a fine of $5,000.

Referring to Green, who is under bail on charges of attempting to influence the testimony of witnesses, Judge Hopkins said:

"Several witnesses came to me after testifying and said efforts had been made to get them to change their testimony, but no one of them said that any effort had been made to influence them against Quattrocchi. The motion, therefore, is denied."

"Legs" Is Silent

Diamond shook his head in answer to the court's question if he had anything to say.

Diamond's attorneys then offered a motion for admission to bail pending an appeal, which they said would be filed within the 90 day limit.

To a reporter who inquired how he felt Diamond said:

"Oh, I'm all right. What's the use of being anything else?"

The court fixed bail pending appeal at $15,000 for Diamond and at $7,500 for Quattrocchi. The bonds were posted.

PURSE, BULLET MURDER CLUES

Police Strive To Reconstruct Scene In Michigan Slayings

ANN ARBOR, MICH., Aug. 12.—With a blood stained purse and a 38 calibre bullet as slender clues, authorities today attempted to reconstruct the slaying early yesterday of four persons, two boys and two girls, on a tree-lined country road 12 miles southeast of here.

Last night and today but two of them were released after making statements to Sheriff Jacob B. Andres. The identity of the two who were released was not revealed.

Two others, Paul Kenne, 49, and his brother, Lawrence, 38, still are in custody, although officials said the new developments tended to establish their claims of innocence.

As investigators attempted to reconstruct the slayings, they adopted the theory that the four victims, Thomas Wheatley, 16, of near Denton; Harry Lore, 18, of Ypsilanti; and Vivian Gold, 15, and Anna May Harrison, 16, both of Cleveland, had been slain by assailants who attacked them as they were parked in a "lover's lane" seven miles from the place where their bodies were found in young Wheatley's burned automobile.

Waddell has entered into an agreement with the county to discount the unpaid portion of his fine in monthly installments.

OHIO SELECTS NOMINEES FOR CONGRESS JOBS

Hollister (R), Lorbach (D), Compete for Longworth Vacancy

PARRY, SWEENEY FOR MOONEY POST

General Coxey Tops Five Foes In Massillon Mayor Race

(By Associated Press)

Candidates for two congressional vacancies and for municipal offices in many communities were known today from the result of yesterday's Ohio primary elections.

There were spirited contests in numerous towns and cities, and at Steubenville 50 special deputy sheriffs were called out to control the excitement. Two men were arrested there.

Voters in the first congressional district, which includes part of Cincinnati, nominated John B. Hollister, Republican, and State Senator David Lorbach, Democrat, as candidates to succeed the late Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the house.

In Cleveland, Democrats nominated municipal Judge Martin L. Sweeney for the vacant congressional seat of the late Charles A. Mooney. Republican nominated D. Hayden Parry. The district is strongly Democratic.

Coxey Is Victor

High spots of the municipal primaries included the nomination of "General" Jacob Coxey, who years ago led "Coxey's Army" of unemployed to Washington, as Republican candidate for mayor of Massillon. The count of ballots was to show today whether Fred W. Justus or Fred Skolmuck, Democrats, would be Coxey's opponent.

General Coxey, now 76 years old, led five Republican opponents by a wide margin in the primary, and was considered the probable winner of the November election in this normally Republican community.

At Marietta, the Democrats nominated an 81-year-old Civil war veteran, John W. Gray, for mayor. The present incumbent, F. A. Steadman, Republican, was renominated.

Marietta voters defeated an ordinance for construction of a $650,000 municipal light plant.

Amid the election excitement at Steubenville, the Republicans defeated Miss Amanda Strayer, as candidate for city solicitor. She was the first Ohio woman to hold such office and was seeking a third term. Her successful opponent was Karl Weinman, an attorney.

James McMaster was nominated by the Steubenville Republicans for mayor in a close race against Oliver Conkey, present incumbent.

DAMAGE IS HIGH IN LAKE STORM

7 Hurt, 4 Houses Razed, $50,000 Loss In Area West of Lorain

LORAIN, O., Aug. 12.—Seven persons injured, four houses smashed and three houses knocked from their foundations, was the estimate early today of the damage done by a near tornado, which last night struck Sheffield Lake village, five miles west of here.

Accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain, the storm swept off Lake Erie shortly before midnight. Suddenly attaining its peak, it lifted the houses from the ground, tumbled them and their occupants about, broke many trees and telephone poles and did other damage.

All lights in the village were put out by the storm. Communication lines with other cities were broken. Streets were flooded and traffic impeded.

Four girls, occupants of a cottage which was overturned, were rescued from the wreckage by Fred Horn, a Sheffield fireman. They were injured.

Within a short time, villagers were able to call for ambulances and private cars to take the injured to St. Joseph's hospital in Lorain.

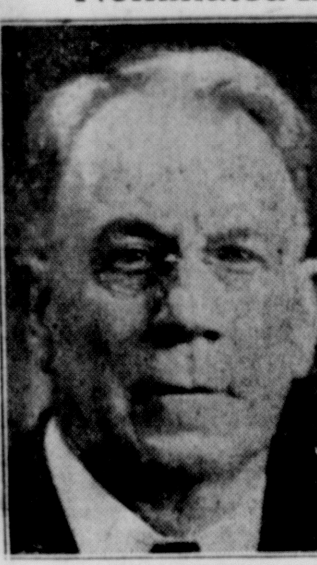

Property damage was estimated by Mayor Fred Hosford at not less than $50,000.

The high wind missed Lorain, but streets here were flooded by rain, and citizens hearing of the violent storm at the nearby village recalled the tornado which struck Lorain in June, 1924, killing 93 persons and doing a property damage of $20,000,000.

I CERTAINLY APPRECIATE THE CONFIDENCE THE PEOPLE OF SALEM HAVE IN ME IN NOMINATING ME FOR MAYOR FOR THE SECOND TERM. I WILL MAKE EVERY EFFORT, AS I HAVE IN THE PAST TO PROVE THAT THAT CONFIDENCE IS NOT MISPLACED.

Herrington, a former councilman, was a winner over former mayor, J. S. Wilson, his nearest opponent, in a 10-cornered race. The vote was 1,286 to 1,022. The vote was light.

Other results were: Earl Greenwalt defeated H. S. Lindell for the Republican nomination for president of council. The vote was Greenwalt 2,563; Lindell 1,514.

S. J. Overdorf was a winner over City Auditor W. M. McGraw seeking renomination for a sixth term. The vote was: Overdorf 999; McGraw 951. Three other candidates were in the race.

Walter Ashbaugh, George Hughes and Edward Laughlin were named Republican nominees for councilmen-at-large. The votes were: Ashbaugh 2,130; Hughes 1,847; Laughlin 1,626. Two other candidates in the race were Coy Miller, who received 963 votes and T. H. Wilkinson 1,369.

Four ward councilmen were renominated on the Republican ticket. They were: first ward W. S. McClelland; second ward, Edgar S. Heddlston; third ward, Dr. A. C. Frost; fourth ward, Charles Gilbert.

In the G. O. P. race for municipal court clerk nomination, Miss Sarah McMillan, now filling the place by appointment, ran away from five other candidates. She received 1,966 votes against 737 for C. O. Weaver, her nearest opponent.

On the Democratic ticket, Benedum defeated Alex Chaffin, retired building contractor, 373 to 102. But one other contest marked the Democratic primaries. Former Mayor W. F. Orr defeated Edwin Wolfe for the city auditor nomination.

Solicitor C. K. Scott Tops 2 Opponents; Webster Triumphs

Baker Is Winner In Council Presidency Race; Seven Democratic Candidates Qualify for November Balloting As Names Are Written In

Mayor John M. Davidson, Republican, and George McArthur, Democrat, were nominated by their parties for the mayoralty race at the November election in Tuesday's record-breaking primary vote.

Davidson, leading the Republican ticket, polled 1,218 votes to defeat Harry Kesselmeire by a 323 majority with George Bricker, who was given 108 votes, third. McArthur won from his Democratic opponent, L. C. Loschky, 103 to 14.

One of three office-holders, seeking renomination, was defeated in the day's balloting. City Auditor Helen R. Woerther, seeking her third term, losing to Karl L. Webster by 73 votes. Webster polled 1,098 votes to Miss Woerther's 1,020.

Another close Republican battle saw City Solicitor Cecil K. Scott, aspiring to his fourth term, nominated over Atty. Charles G. McCorkhill by a 201 vote majority. Scott polled 1,062 to 861 by McCorkhill. Atty. L. B. Harris was third, getting 259 votes.

Baker Nominated

Charles J. Baker, councilman-at-large, was nominated for the council presidency. Baker defeated Harold Babb, 1,191 votes to 827, in the fourth Republican contest.

Other Republican candidates whose names appeared on the ticket, were without opposition. These included O. C. Hoover for treasurer; George R. Harroff, D. U. Smith and Thomas V. Yates for council-at-large; C. F. Zimmerman, first ward council; L. R. Cobb, second; and Joseph Calladine, fourth.

Paul J. Dean, whose name was written in on 41 ballots as third ward councilman, qualified for a place on the November ballots.

The mayoralty battle between McArthur and Loschky was the only contest appearing on the Democratic ticket. A. Earl Beardmore was automatically nominated for a second term as city treasurer while Councilman Samuel Krauss was renominated for the Third ward's council representative. Miss Ethel I. Edwards was nominated as Second ward councilman.

Three On Ballots

Beardmore, Krauss and Miss Edwards were the only Democratic candidates whose names appeared on the ballots. The party's electors wrote in the names of Atty. Royal L. Schiller for solicitor; G. Paul Covert for president of council; M. D. Shelton, Lyman Goodballet and C. F. Kling for council-at-large; Ernest Schmidt, first ward council, and E. J. Maley, Fourth ward.

Maley, selected by the Democratic committee to compete for the Fourth ward post, had, previously to yesterday's voting, announced that he was not competing for the office. Sufficient votes were cast in his favor, however, to qualify him.

GANGSTER MYTHS

Out in Chicago Al Capone's attorneys are mapping the defense
they hope will keep their client
from languishing too long in jail.
Over in New York, Jack (Legs)
Diamond's attorneys have watched the defense they carefully built knocked into a cocked hat. They will go to court today to hear sentence pronounced on their client.

This is as good a time as any to pronounce final over America's two most famous gangster myths.
They are blown up and washed away, like a cloud of dust in a rain storm. Let the glib youngsters who are said to eat up gang lore and become thugs try to find them.

Capone, the "big fellow", and Diamond, the "gangster", have turned out to be a couple of posers.
Their fadeout gesture is a sickly smile. In their hoodlum circles they rated attention, an uncomfortable lot of it from their enemies. Outside their circles, where they have stood up roughly by the law, they are merely two cringing and unwilling candidates for penitentiary suits. If that looks attractive to any youngster, he ought to become a gangster. It's the quickest way out.

Preaching is notoriously ineffective. Anyone who is concerned over the possibility that some youngsters may think of crime as an attractive career can take a deep and quiet satisfaction in the blow-up of Al Capone and Legs Diamond
—better than a thousand sermons.
They weren't much to start with,
and now they're "just nothin'."

What Others Say

GRASSHOPPER YEAR
Grasshoppers have it in their power to turn the "tragedy of plenty" into a famine tragedy, to transform the surplus problem into a food problem. They have done it before; they might do it again.
News from Rome discloses that 1931 is a "grasshopper year" not only in western America, but in Europe, too. The pests have swept bare a large acreage in Italy. They may move north into Central Europe. They did it repeatedly in ancient times, occasionally with results that killed thousands of humans, and hundreds of thousands of domestic animal through sheer starvation.

Just why the tribe of grasshop-
pers should be multiplied so miraculously in a given year, or a given series of years, is a moot question. Heat and drought probably have something to do with it.
After the great hopper plague 1874-1875-1876 in the transmississippi region, the government appointed a board of eminent entomologists to investigate. Its three reports were to the effect that the spread of cultivation through the insects' natural breeding grounds was about the only hope of permanently checking the menace.

But cultivation has spread, and still fear of the hopper plague hangs perennially over large western areas. And this year the fear has been realized, at least in part.
Certain it is, however, that deep fall plowing does destroy the eggs of the grasshoppers, eggs that are deposited in bunches under the surface of the ground, into which the insects' ovipositor is thrust.
The bunches of eggs are covered with a secretion that hardens into a protective armor. But if these "pods" of eggs are turned up one of the earth by the plow before spring hatching time, their power to produce new grasshoppers is lost.

Meanwhile in one Colorado locality farmers are actually harvesting grasshoppers as a crop. The insects having worked devastation with the crops, the farmers—by means of pans of water suspended in front of automobiles driven through the fields—are gathering in the hoppers. The drowned insects are dried out and fed to pou-
try. Eventually, when transformed into eggs and broilers, they bring a cash return.

But all the chickens in the world could make scarcely dent in the swarms of hoppers that darkened
the skies and even stopped trains in the Great Plains region in the middle seventies. The problem just now is not merely protecting growing crops from the present generation of grasshoppers, but also preventing a recurrence of the plague next year, like the recurrence of the 1874 plague in 1875

and 1876. Surely modern science able to conquer such microscopic destroyers as the germs of cholera and yellow fever, can find some effective way to cope with destroyers possessing the grasshopper's visibility—Minneapolis Journal.

Fake Cures for Cancer

In a recent radio speech made by Lord Moyrhan, president of the Royal College of Surgeons of England, he warned against "fake" cancer cures. With great sincerity and earnestness, this eminent surgeon warned against the dangers of unscientific and unconfirmed methods of cure.

Many persons who know they have cancer fail to avail themselves of the opportunity to rid themselves of this dread disease. Instead, they delay, trying all sorts and means of treatment, but never the correct one.

By various newspaper announcements, the American Medical Association has endeavored to warn the public of this danger. But there continue to exist many unauthorized institutions offering so-called
"cures" for cancer.

Cancer is a dreadful disease. But in most cases, if recognized early and treated early, it can be entirely eradicated.

Statistics issued by the British Ministry of Health indicate that in cases of cancer of the breast operated in the early stages of the disease, 90.1 per cent of the patients were well ten years after operation. It was pointed out that when the disease was neglected and surgery resorted to at a late stage, 94.4 per cent failed to recover.

As suggested by Lord Moyrhan, cancer in its early stage is a local condition. This is why surgery has accomplished such great results

within recent years.

Treatment is of little or no avail
when the victim neglects treatment and refuses to be operated on in the beginning. After suffering fortunately, in desperation, the patient
may permit the surgeon to operate.
Unfortunately, it may then be too late to bring about a cure.

The importance of periodic health examinations is demonstrated by the attitude of the public towards this dreaded disease. Because of such an examination the condition is likely to be discovered when there is little annoyance or consciousness of trouble. When immediately operated upon, such cases
make satisfactory recovery.

It is surprising to learn of the number of intelligent persons who become panicky and refuse operation. Undoubtedly, this is because of fear of the "knife."

What a mistake! Really an anaesthetic and a minor operation are not to be dreaded. I know this is the fact.

Answers to Health Queries
S. V. Q.—What causes blue rings around the eyes?

A.—This may be due to general weakness or a run-down condition.
Have your doctor advise you so that definite advice and treatment can be outlined.

T. C. Q.—Does it injure the teeth in any way to brush them vigorously? Would this tend to injure the enamel?

A.—No, but do not irritate the gums.

Miss E. B. Q.—I have a continual tired, heavy feeling in my eyes and through my forehead
which has a stiff feeling—the heavy feeling is worse in the morning. I have had my eyes examined and they are not at fault. What would you suggest?

A.—There may be a sinus disturbance at the source of the trouble—
be sure that the nasal passages are clear and that there is no catarrh tendency. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

vigor and assurance of success and happiness, attended by many ele-

child born on this day should be brilliant, original, skillful and popular in the many departments of human endeavor, reaching high place
and happiness by its natural equipment as well as by favors of superiors.

NEW YORK
Day by Day
by O.O. McIntyre

LONDON, Aug. 12.—One is rarely able to escape the thoughtfulness that is distinctly London as a first impression. Yet in a few days it mel-lows—melts away like one of its wraith-like fogs. Most Anglo-Saxons feel the tug of London no matter where they go. I think it is because of its pronounced pride.

No city in the world has rolled up such tradition. Every noon, every cranny, every mezzanine is stuffed with some ancient memory that has played a part in history. In no other place has civilization lumped
such a queer massing of humanity
like it or not it is a phenomenon
one must admire.

Paris has a gleaming parr and London a harsh jangle. In Paris one is attracted by the portentous trivality. In London only the sober and gigantic reality. To me it is a city where the sun, like the people seeking happiness, is always trying with futility to shine.

If one judged England by its countryside from a train window all looks well. The wheat, the barley and oats are in healthy luxuriance.
Yellowhammers sing wildly on bordering hedge rows. Wild roses and bramble blossoms with touches of poppy scarlet bloom everywhere.

Yet upon thundering into Victoria station and entering the city
there is a thought that Great Britain is world weary—a bit sick.
It may have been imagination but there was an impression of lastitude. I hurried to the cheerful artificial light of a hotel room.

A fugitive morning fog drifted low, stamping its eternal signet of the sea and making street and window illuminations pale yellow fiery blobs. Pedestrians along pavements seemed swimming figures snipped out of black paper. The buildings luminously gray in clear light were today vague smudges.

Despite these depressing surface misgivings there is a feeling of security about London. She appears a great ship plunging through the tempest with majestic indifference.
And no matter the course, there is a conviction she is bound to reach port safely.

The gayest hour of London is the lunch time between one and two.
Everybody pours out of offices,
shops and counting rooms in a se-saw of exuberance. Young men in trousers ruled like ledgers, steno-graphers arm in arm, young toffs
in silk hats and gray frocks, Bill Sykeses, Ariettes and Alfis scurry to quick lunch bars and coffee stalls.
Countless omnibuses sway with passengers. Groups collect on the curbs and bridge ends. The streets fill with criers of racing tip sheets.
Faces so tense and questioning relax and London forgets its worries
for an hour.

London does some of its naming tongue in check. I thought of this when I sought ministrations of the Intricate Questions To Search Into Intangible Wealth

(Editors Note: This is the second of a series of articles by International News Service, explaining the new taxation laws
adopted by the Ohio 89th general assembly.)

Long hours of mental wrestling
with questionnaires were made unavoidable for Ohio taxpayers when the 89th general assembly adopted the intangible tax bill.

The slender two-page circular formerly used as a personal property return blank will become a bulky pamphlet of from 10 to 15
pages under the new law.

Intricate questions, searching into the intangible wealth as well as the personal property, will fill both sides of each sheet.

Although exhausted at the task,
the taxpayer will not be permitted to ignore any of the questions asked him. The easy days of the old personal property return, when the tired taxpayer could skip over the questions which troubled him,
are past.

Determined to ferret out every piece of property, the state tax commissioner will insist that every question in the pamphlet be answered.

Tax commission members hinted that many property owners will consider questions in the new list too difficult to answer alone, and will employ attorneys to handle that task.

We will be required to be very patient with the public the first year under this new law, until it gets acquainted with the intricacies of the statute," Quincy Davis, Butler county member of the commission told International News Service.

Flower of Thorns

By Marie Conway Oemler

"Y-yes, suh," said Moses.

SYNOPSIS
Sally Rutherford, the last of a proud old southern family, following the ruin and suicide of her grandfather, determines to keep the heavily mortgaged Oakleigh plantation for her grandmother. A "poor" lodge, facing the Dixie highway, gives her the idea of starting a hot dog stand. She arranges with a milkman, who says he is Mr. Forman, foreman of the Winstead dairies, to deliver milk. He is really Samuel Forman Winstead, only son of Henry Winstead town banker and holder of the Oakleigh mortgage. Sam, well educated and traveled, prefers farming to finance. The Rutherford ladies "didn't know" the Winsteads of carthopping stock, whose estate adjoined Oakleigh. Sally's milkman helps her get the shack ready for business and even shows her how to make hot dogs.

INSTALLMENT 8
CUSTOMERS
Sam seated himself. Ashamed to refuse, Sally Rutherford sat down with the milkman opposite her. Buttered hot corn on the cob and hot dogs with all the trimmings are not to be eaten in an elegant or impressive manner, even by the elect. One simply eats them as best one can and rejoices in the bounty of the Lord. Sally ate, and discovered that she had been hungry. She cleaned her plate, and when her glass was empty he refilled it.

Horn, honked outside. Two large cars had stopped and people were staring out of them. There came a tattoo on the door.

"Your customers already!" exclaimed the milkman, and got to his feet.

"But I don't open until tomorrow morning!" said she panicky.

But he had thrown the door wide, and was bowing to the men and women who came in. The women exclaimed over the room. The men demanded refreshments.

"We don't open until tomorrow, really, and so we aren't quite prepared. But we can give you fine hot dogs and the best of milk. We expect to specialize on hot dogs—the best rolls, the best trimmings," explained the milkman.

Everybody clamored for such as he had, and almost with stupefaction Sally Rutherford watched him serving them. He was gay, smiling, deft. As if by magic his simple fare was ready almost as it was called for.

"We were so lucky as to have enough wienies and butter on hand. This afternoon's milk has just come, too. When you come again we can give you more varied fare—but we can't give you better hot dogs. Nobody could."

Attracted by the "lighted" room and the open door, a few more cars stopped, more people crowded in. All of them admired the room. A stout woman called attention to the Rogers group on the mantel.

"I would like that."

"It's for sale, madame, and only ten dollars," said the milkman and handed it to her. She paid for it on the spot. He bowed to the customer and handed the money to the dazed Sally.

"Tomorrow, ladies and gentlemen, we open. We shall put in our own home baked pies, cakes, rolls—all made by a wonderful old Mammy, the finest cook in Carolina. We shall have waffles. We shall have fried chicken to order. We shall have tea and coffee, the best of cream, milk, butter. I can guarantee this when I tell you that we purchase our dairy supplies from the celebrated Winstead Dairy farm—the best in the south. As you can see by our new shingle, this is 'Sally's Shack.' Come again and bring your friends with you." He went on pouring out milk nonchalantly as he spoke.

Seeing some of the women examining the china on the shelves, he went over presently and made himself agreeable to them. He talked entertainingly, and sold two pieces for five dollars, which he handed over to Sally. Dutifully he collected his nickels and dimes. Sally had twenty dollars and fifty cents in the new till that had been so empty only an hour before, when he bowed his customers out and closed the door.

"Id keep open longer, but all our wienies are gone. Ditto rolls, except one which you can save for Moses," he said, smiling. "It comes to me that you'll have to keep this place

KNOX ACQUIRES CHICAGO PAPER

Eastern Publisher Buys Control of News From Executors

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Aug. 12—Control of the Chicago Daily News was purchased today from the executors of the Walter A. Strong estate by Frank Knox, publisher of the Manchester, N. H., Union Leader, and Theodore T. Ellis, of Worcester, Mass., manufacturer and former publisher of the Worcester Telegram and Gazette.

Mr. Knox assumed his duties today as president and publisher of the News. Mr. Ellis will be vice president of the corporation and a member of its board of directors.

In Executors' Charge
Mr. Strong, publisher of the newspaper since the death of Victor Lawson, died of a heart attack, May 10, leaving disposition of his estate to the discretion of three executors; his widow, Josephine Haviland Strong; Laird Bell, his personal attorney, and Holman D. Pettibone, president of the Chicago Title and Trust Company.

In announcing the transfer of the controlling majority of the Daily News stock to the eastern men, the executors issued this statement:

"Having known intimately the high ideals with which Walter Strong edited the Daily News, his pride in it, and his determination that it should serve the highest interest of his community and his country, we cannot have escaped for the maintenance of the fine a deep sense of our responsibility traditions of the paper."

To Fulfill Trust
"In putting the control and management of it into the hands of Colonel Knox, we confidently believe that we are fulfilling this trust. His conspicuous success and fine reputation as a newspaperman, his intention to maintain the tone and character of the paper have convinced us that as long as he controls it, its readers may go on relying upon it to collect the news swiftly and accurately, to present it fairly and to comment upon it honestly."

The first owners of the Daily News were Melville E. Stone, for

REVOLT SWINGS TOWARD HAVANA

Group of Rebels Attempts To Blow Up Water Reservoir

HAVANA, Aug. 12.—The revolutionary movements swung back toward Havana today as the insurgents turned their efforts to the destruction of natural resources.

Police said a group of rebels had attempted to blow up the water reservoir at Regla, just across the bay from the capital, but were surprised and driven off by Loyalist soldiers.

Another band was said to have tried to fire the storage tank of the Shell Oil company, in the suburb of Lyuano but fled under a hail of bullets.

Government offices confirmed dispatches from Pinar Del Rio province saying 14 rebels were killed and 19 wounded in sharp engagements last night with army forces.

In the Los Palacios section, it was said, a detachment under Captain Adelfo Chipi surprised rebels and four, among them, General Francisco Peraza, 83-year-old veteran of three former revolutions. The Peraza family in Havana, however, denied he had been killed.

At Artimisa, near the town of Candelara, three infantry units supported by machine guns met revolutionaries headed by Celestino Baizan, former governor of Havana province and killed nine and wounded 18, the interior department announced.

Army headquarters said one rebel was killed and one injured in skirmishing near Cienfuegos in Oriente province. Another exchange of fire, without casualties, was reported near Cruces in Santa Clara.

ORGANIZE MANHUNT TO TRACK SLAYERS

All of the forces of law and order in Michigan are united in a search for the person or persons who murdered four youthful high school students in a lonely road, near Ypsilanti, then shoved the bodies into the rear of the automobile, in which the two couples had been sitting, and set fire to it. When farmers arrived at the scene, attracted by noise of a terrific struggle, the bodies of Vivian Gold and Anna Harrison, Cleveland, Harry Lore of Ypsilanti and Thomas Wheatley of Belleville, Mich., were found, charred beyond recognition. Neighbors reported seeing an automobile flee from the spot where the young folk, all near the age of 17, had stopped to watch the sunrise. The girls were visiting the home of Harry Lore, Vivian Gold's cousin. Photos show a close-up of the car and crowd gathered around it on the lonely road, which is said to be frequented by bootleggers.

Die In Lonely Lane Murder

Scarcely a clue, save automobile tracks, has been uncovered by members of the state-wide man-hunt, organized to track down the slayers of Vivian Gold, 16, of Cleveland, left, above, and Anna Harrison, 17, Cleveland, right, above. The two girls, with their escorts, Harry Lore, 18, of Ypsilanti, Mich., Miss Gold's cousin and Thomas Wheatley, 16, of Belleville, Mich., were murdered, dumped into the back of the machine then burned beyond recognition. Farmers who were hastened to the scene, after hearing a struggle, saw an automobile leaving the scene.

particularly in Vera Cruz, where villages are flooded, many drowned.

Vera Cruz, the Mexican state that has dealt so harshly with Catholic priests, limiting them to fewer than 15 in a country of 1,000,000 inhabitants, had a warning recently from a volcano that had been quiet for centuries. Black clouds, loud roarings, torrents of boiling water and mud, wiping out many houses, followed by the drowning of many villagers, will seem to the deeply religious inhabitants of Vera Cruz a direct reply to the government's anti-religious law.

No! All Cars Are Not Alike—

Essex is a Super-Six
With Exclusive Features of Super-Six Design and Super-Six Performance

Selective FREE WHEELING Further Emphasizes the Difference

All who know the facts recognize that in performance, smoothness and reliability the Super-Six principle gives Essex a distinction that cannot be likened to any other car. With it, vibration is reduced to nil.

No motor was ever so well known. None has ever shared its fame for reliability. On that one score Essex, because it alone can use the Super-Six, stands distinctive in the six-cylinder field.

But the difference is not limited to its Super-Six motor and Super-Six performance.

Now Essex includes Selective Free

Wheeling. That adds another joyous motoring sensation. Driving takes on a new zest. You shift gears without using the clutch.

In its price field it is also the largest car. It is inches longer—seats are inches wider—leg room is greater—and everyone who examines it closely also finds it more carefully and finely built in respect to chassis detail and body appointments.

Essex quality goes beyond its motor, fittings and upholstery. It goes to the very foundation. Isn't it a satisfaction to know you can get such quality in a car so easy to own?

Today's Pattern

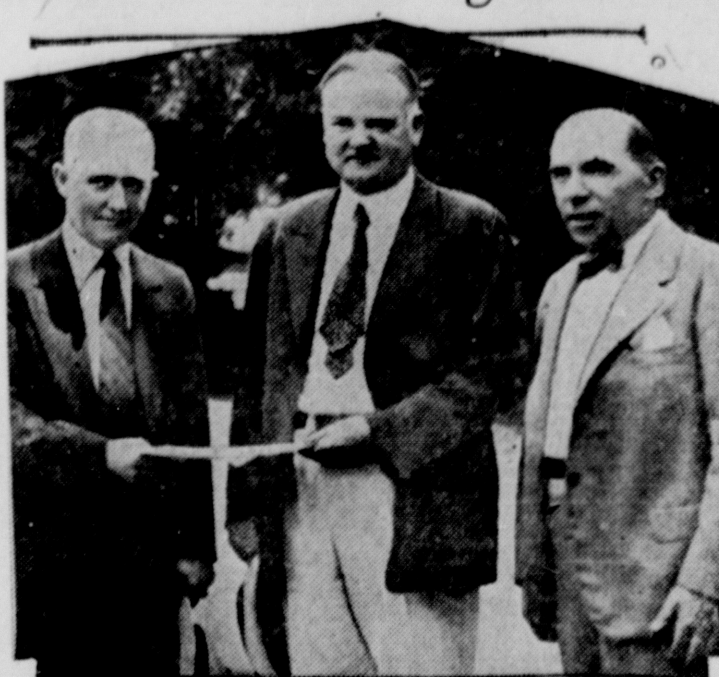

One of the oldest and best rules about children's clothes is the rule about simplicity, and a little frock like this proves that however practical a frock may be, simplicity need not be achieved at the expense of style. The lines are so simple that the frock can be made in a few hours, yet there are such important grown-up style features as the suggestion of the bolero in seamings, and the use of color contrast. Matching bloomers accompany Pattern 2185.
Obtainable only in sizes 4, 6, 8, 10, and 12. Size 4 requires 1 1/2 yards of 36 inch material, 3/4 yard of 36 inch contrasting. Yardsage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given. No dress-making experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern.

EATON CHARGES TO BE PROBED

Continental Minority Approves Fact-Finding Committee

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 12.—Minority stockholders of Continental shares, Inc., today sanctioned the appointment of a fact-finding committee to investigate charges that Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland financier wrongly used millions of the company's funds when he was chairman of the board.

The committee appointed was composed of three members. They are George L. Guggle, Columbus attorney, who made the charges against Eaton and called today's meeting; Paul J. Gnaul, Canton attorney; and Thomas J. Farrell, of Youngstown, a large holder of preferred and common stocks.

In a report to the stockholders Guggle asked that some action be taken for the purpose of seeking restoration to the treasury of Continental shares of more than $140,000,000 which he claims was shown by an audit to have been used in the interests of Eaton and various of his companies.

Principal among the Eaton companies which Guggle said benefitted by the transaction were Otis & Company, foreign utilities, Ltd., and Goodyear shares.

Guggle suggested the appointment of a protective committee, in a recent letter to stockholders, but those voting the shares at today's meeting declined to go that far.

"A WOMAN OF EXPERIENCE"

At The State
Helen Twelvetrees is the star of "A Woman of Experience" feature today at the State. William Bakewell plays opposite her.

It is about a beautiful Viennese woman of uncertain reputation who enlists in the intelligence department to be of service to her country. As she is about to start on her first assignment, she falls in love with a young naval officer—and there the complications begin. The story takes an unusual turn at the end which makes it quite different from the usual run of pictures. In the cast also are Lew Cody, Zasu Pitts, H. B. Warner, C. Henry Gordon, Franklin Pangborn and Nance O'Neill.

"DADDY LONG LEGS"

A The Grand

"Daddy Long Legs" is at the Grand theater today in a return engagement.

The choice of Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter for the leading roles is a particularly happy one. "Daddy Long Legs" is the story of the little orphan girl, Judy Abbott, who has grown to beautiful young girlhood in an orphanage. There she is seen and adopted by Jervis Pendleton, a wealthy young bachelor who never permits her to know who is responsible for her good fortune. She only knows him by the name she has given him, "Daddy Long Legs". He sends her to a fashionable girls' boarding school where, in spite of her past, she becomes the most popular girl in the school. Of course Pendleton finds himself in love with her, and permits her finally to meet her "Daddy Long Legs" in one of the cleverest fade-out scenes in a long time.

THE DAY In Sports

GRID PLANS BEING FORMED
BIG TEN MEETING PLANNED

THE ADVENT of cooler evenings has quickly to football and coming gridiron campaigns involving Salem High, Ohio State University, Mount Union college, Pitt and other favorites with fans of this city. Everything points towards another record-breaking season, towards a good year at the Red and Black, a fine campaign for Samuel Sebastian Willaman and the usual colorful contests that serve to attract nation-wide attention.

Coach Floyd W. Stone and his chief aide Frank P. Lewis will arrive in Salem about September 1 to arrange plans for Salem's grid activities and already lads are getting into condition for the pre-season camp which will probably be maintained at Dunn Eden lake park. Stone will have a fine array of veteran grid talent available, an unusually strong list of last year's reserve material and fans visualize another highly successful aggregation.

The situation is the reverse at Ohio State where Willaman will be lacking his greatest of greats, Wesley Fesler, and other 1930 regulars. He is facing the stiffest schedule ever arranged for a Scarlet and Gray eleven, a campaign which includes Navy, Vanderbilt, Pitt, together with the usual Big Ten conference opponents — Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois and others.

THE NORTHEASTERN Ohio Big Ten Athletic League, involving the Stonemen, will be starting its third year in football when the schedule gets under way in September. There will be a meeting of league members for the purpose of studying rules, officials will be invited to meet with coaches and school heads, and general plans will be arranged. There will be the matter of selection of a school to succeed Warren High and other business to come up before officials. And too, diligent study should be devoted to the problem of placing the league on par with other Ohio interscholastic bodies. It has been far from such to date.

BUT TAKE YOUR ancient battles on the greensward. Salem fans, the majority of them at least, are still battling for seats at Centennial park field where softball league teams are exploiting talents in a hectic contest for the city championship. It's a four-way affair that won't be over for several weeks. When the thud of bounding football reverberates at Relly athletic stadium, a thousand mushball-enraged bugs will still be packing benches at the park.

Salem is a year-round sports city. It's softball in the summer, football in the fall, basketball in winter and field and track in the spring. And, in every sport this century-old Quaker City dominates in North-eastern Ohio. Its scholastic teams are noted the state over, in other states too. Mushball is still in its infancy, but we predict that before long the Quakers will be registering resounding victories over district opponents in that competition too.

MACK REPORTED MAKING PLANS FOR NEW TEAM

Champions' manager Uses Reserve Lineup to Win 8-1 Tilt Tuesday

MARBERRY BLANKS CHICAGO SOX, 3-0

Senator Ace Allows Only 3 Singles; McFayden Defeats Browns

(By Associated Press)

Ever so often during fanning bees this season, the word has gone out that Connie Mack is about ready to build up his current baseball machine and start building a new team.

He did it once, and those who believe the present Philadelphia team is nearing the end of the championship road are willing to believe Mack will repeat the experiment.

Uses Reserves In Lineups

But the Athletics lineup for the past three weeks indicates Mack will not have such a long hard pull in rebuilding his team if he does decide to make important changes before next year. For about three weeks A's have been theoretically crippled.

Joe Boley and Jimmy Dukes have been out of action most of the time and a third infield regular, Max Bishop, has missed a good many games. Added to that, Mule Haas was hurt putting a serious kink in the outfield.

In that three weeks, however, the Athletics have won 1 game and lost seven, proving that Mack has some substitutes who can go along winning games in the accepted Athletic manner. Dibs Williams and Eric McNair have served well in the infield and Jimmy Fox has been able to move over to third when it was required while Roger Cramer is showing up well in the outfield.

Grove Wins 23rd

The trio of "substitutes" behind Lefty Grove yesterday produced an 8 to 1 victory over the Detroit Tigers in the first game of the new western tour. McNair started the deciding rally in the second inning with a home run. It was Grove's 23rd victory.

Fred "Pep" Marberry, second ranking pitcher of the American league, kept Washington in its customary place behind the Athletics by shutting out the Chicago White Sox, 3-0. Marberry allowed only three singles while Red Fesler started his own defeat in the fourth inning with a wild throw that let the first Senator run score.

MacFayden Trims Brown

Danny MacFayden of the Boston Red Sox came out ahead in yesterday's other major league game, getting a 4 to 3 decision over the St. Louis Browns. The Sox gained a three-run lead in the first inning by bunting his after Levey's error had filled the bases. They won out in the eighth on Tom Oliver's single after the Browns had tied the score in the seventh.

New York and Cleveland in the American league and all three games of the National league schedule were rained out.

Wood To Face Test

DETROIT—Faced with what appears the most serious threat in years, Gar Wood, famous speed boat racer, is spending his days at his Maryville boat shops preparing for his defense of the Harmsworth trophy.

Kaye Don, who has shattered all speed boat records with his Miss England II, will come to the Detroit river this September with a faster boat than Wood ever has put on the water. This year, however, the threat against the trophy Wood won many years ago in England seems more real.

Don McLeay Scores First Hole-in-One At Salem Golf Club

The thrill that comes but once in a lifetime was experienced Tuesday afternoon by Donald McLeay, professional at the Salem Golf Club course.

McLeay, playing in a foursome at the local course, fended the hall of fame in golf when he scored the first hole-in-one of his career.

The ace came on the No. 6 hole, 145 yds. from the tee. A No. 6 iron was used to execute the feat, the first hole-in-one ever made at the Salem club.

Witnesses to the shot were Samuel Watkins, Dr. Fred R. Crowgey and G. R. Gibson.

BURKE, VON ELM WILL PLAY AT ALLIANCE CLUB

ALLIANCE, Aug. 13—George Von Elm and Billy Burke, two of America's leading golf stars, will play in an exhibition match at the Alliance Country club at 3:45 p. m. Friday.

Von Elm and Burke will clash with Jack Thompson of Youngstown and Bill Thompson of Congress Lake in an 18-hole match. A large throng of Salem golfers is expected to attend the event.

Much interest is being displayed in the match. Burke seems to have caught the popular fancy after his great work of a few weeks ago, while Von Elm has always held a place in the esteem of the followers of the ancient and honorable sport.

Monday Burke and Von Elm played the sporty Beechmont Country Club course in Cleveland. They displayed uncanny form at times, but were unable to lick par. A large crowd saw the pair at Beechmont and the consensus of opinion was that they are shooting brilliant golf.

They play at the Youngstown Tippecanoe course Thursday, opposing Jack Thompson and Albert Alcroft.

SCHAAF KAYOES SNYDER IN 5TH

Fast - Punching Easterner Boosts Stock With Impressive Win

(By Associated Press)

BOSTON, Aug. 12—Ernie SchAAF, a slow thinker but a very fast puncher, has boosted his pugilistic prestige another notch by winning a technical knockout over Angus Snyder of Dodge City, Kan., in the fifth round of a scheduled ten-round bout.

The towering slugger, who, after years of campaigning crashed into the circle of top notchers, only a few months ago when he learned that his long right arm carried the sleep that means victory, piled into Snyder with the going to deposit some very discouraging shots.

SchAAF played for Snyder's midriff during most of the first round and then in the second, when Snyder closed in and held SchAAF shifted his attack to the head. From then on it was a case of how long Snyder would last.

SchAAF walloped his opponent about the ring in the fourth round until Snyder was wobbling under the blows. Snyder weathered the round but he was weary as he took his seat as the bell rang.

SchAAF sprang at him in the fifth, straightened him up with a left and then curved a right to the jaw that spilled Snyder on the canvas. He rose to his feet at the count of nine, only to reel into a smash that again settled him on the floor. He was struggling, gamely but futilely, to rise and face the slaughter again when the referee stopped the fight.

A metallic gleam at the bottom of a dry shaft on the Birks ranch west of here lured Morrison to investigate. His shouts for help brought rescuers, including the fire department.

Cheese For Flavor

"But where's the cheese?" demanded the customer who had ordered scalloped cauliflower. The waiter looked puzzled for a moment, then explained in the tone of having done it before.

"Sorry sir, but if you wanted cheese, you should have ordered it au gratin."

It's a common mistake—confusing scalloped with au gratin dishes. "Scalloped" is an arbitrary term for any food baked with layers of breadcrumbs and cream sauce. "Au gratin" is that plus cheese.

Cheese is added in only small quantities to such dishes, but since it is a solid protein it does furnish a lot of nourishment in relation to its quantity. It also adds a definite flavor, and so is rather useful in disguising wholesome dishes that have no popular flavors of their own. Or are really minus flavor.

Some grated cheese added to the fibrous vegetables—cabbage, cauliflower, celery, onions—will make these dishes acceptable to those who don't care about vegetables but will eat cheese with pleasure. Hard American cheese grated is well liked, grated Parmesan is milder. For those who like their cheeses strong, some Roquefort or Gorgonzola added the last minute of baking, will impart a pronounced cheese flavor to the whole dish. It's a camouflage of serving wholesome green vegetables to those who don't like vegetables for their own sake.

In preparing foods au gratin, the vegetables are first cooked by themselves, and a white sauce is prepared in the meantime. About 15 minutes before serving, pile the cooked and drained vegetables in a buttered baking dish, placing a layer of vegetables and the cheese and white sauce in order. On top sprinkle crumbs and bits of butter and bake in a moderate oven until the top is light brown. This should take not more than 15 minutes. No cheese should be cooked longer than necessary to slightly brown. If excessively cooked it will become tough and rather indigestible.

Potatoes Au Gratin

Potatoes au gratin are virtually a one-piece meal as far as nourishment is concerned. The potatoes can be cooked in their jackets, then sliced thin, piled in a buttered casserole with layers of thick white sauce and grated cheese. Additional flavoring of a teaspoon of grated parsley, or a few drops of onion juice, or some chopped sweet peppers will improve the dish further. Baked whole tomatoes, stuffed with breadcrumbs, can be dotted with a few bits of American or Parmesan cheese, and browned a few moments. The combination of tomatoes and cheese is a developed taste, but it is pungent and an excellent accompaniment to fish or any other mildly flavored food.

Ham and Noodles au Gratin

1 cupful boiled noodles
1/2 cupful chopped cooked ham.
1 cupful white sauce.
1/2 cupful grated Parmesan or American cheese.

Drain the cooked noodles and add the hot white sauce and chopped ham. Pour in a buttered baking dish, sprinkle thickly with cheese on top and bake until cheese is melted and light brown.

Small white onions can be cooked, then mixed with white sauce, breadcrumbs and sharp cheese. Indeed, most of the vegetables can be served au gratin—the only exceptions being those with delicate flavor such as asparagus, corn, peas, which would be quite overwhelmed. Since these vegetables are chosen largely for their flavor it is, naturally, wasteful to blend them with stronger foods.

LONDON — Fifty-five million acres have been sown to spring wheat in Russia up to June 1, according to reports received by the British Ministry of Agriculture. Operations are reported to be backward in Siberia.

Today's Pattern

The bib collar is shown in many types on the becoming softly designed frocks for summer afternoons, and this is a particularly charming example. The collar dips to a point in the back, and in the front forms a deeper point that is held down by the sash at the waistline passing through a slot. The flaring skirt of pattern 2175 is joined to the top in a pointed line accentuating the lines of the collar. Embroidered batiste would make this a lovely flattering afternoon frock, or georgette, chiffon, or printed crepe could be used.

Obtainable only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 16 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39 inch material and 2 1/2 yards of ruffling. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern.

Wooden Chairs of Comfort

Soft chairs are not necessarily the most comfortable. Nor is appearance a dependable guide. Some deep, downy chairs that look oh so restful, yield at the wrong places when one tries them. They are soft enough, but they make one tilt backward at the wrong place.

Sit in a chair before buying, or making any judgment about it. And occasionally one is astounded to discover that a stiff-looking chair grips one at just the right spot, gently forcing a correct position—upright but relaxed. (Slumping in a chair is good enough for a moment's relaxation, but if one wants to sit for an hour or so of comfortable reading, then the correct upright position is the easiest.)

Chairs with a backward tilt look comfortable but are not always so. On the other hand, the old-fashioned ladder-back chair, if built with the right-shaped rounded arms, may look stiff, but does give one the right grip at the base of the spine to make for correct posture. A reproduction of an old Colonial type chair which is especially comfortable is the so-called "Tablet Chair." Something like the ladder-back in height, but with well-shaped, rounded arms, and an oval wooden rest at the right side makes it a most completely comfortable chair. The wooden rest or "tablet" may be used for a reading table, or even for service of a light meal for one.

This is a case in point particularly—a chair which to the eye does not suggest comfort for its stiff, straight back of wooden ribs looks severe and the seat hard. Yet, even without the cushion (which may be added) it is a completely comfortable seat, much more so than the Windsor type with its outward-sloping back.

Chairs are of course, a matter of personal preference, and so the safest plan is to have the one who intends to use it do the testing. But in no case should this item of furniture be selected by eye alone.

BOSTON—Hitherto unpublished information on allied loans will be contained in the autobiography of William Gibbs McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, according to an announcement by the Houghton Mifflin Company, the publishers. The book is to be brought out this fall under the title, "A Tenderfoot in Politics." It also will contain new information on the resignation of William Jennings Bryan, on the government administration of railroads and various other phases of the Wilson administration.
